Dr. Edward Hallowell is a world-renowned psychiatrist on a wide variety of issues in human development that are closely related to education. He is a best-selling author who serves on the faculty of the Harvard Medical School. Dr. Hallowell has authored seven books on various psychological topics, including problems with attention, focus, and worry. His national bestsellers, Driven to Distraction and Answers to Distraction, discuss attention deficit order in children and in adults. In this Lee Hysan Lecture, Dr. Hallowell will provide insights into the nature of and issues related to attention deficit disorder in the educational context.

Date: 12 November 2003

Time: 5:00 pm

Venue: LT1, Esther Lee Bldg, CUHK