Murder mystery 1:
A millionaire was found dead by his desk. He might have drunk a glass of poisonous wine. There was a letter by his side and his right hand was still holding the pen, which was believed to be the one he used to write the letter. After investigations, the police said that the millionaire had not killed himself. He was murdered. Why was the police so sure about that?

Fact sheet about the murder mystery

Where did the murder happen?
In a millionaire’s house.

When did the murder happen?
Not mentioned.

Who was the victim?
The millionaire.

How did he/she die?
He died after drinking a glass of poisonous wine.

What was/were the proof(s)?
A glass of poisonous wine, a letter by the side of the millionaire, a pen in the millionaire’s right hand.

Why was the police so sure that the victim was murdered?
After investigations, the police found that the man was left-handed and would not write with his right hand. So they were sure that the man was murdered.

Murder mystery 2:
The police found a dead body of a woman in a house. There was a letter next to the dead body. The letter was written with water-proof (oil-soluble) ink. The police believed that it was written by the woman, who said, in the letter, that she shot herself with a gun because she owed people a lot of money. The letter was dated 3 days ago. The police searched the house carefully and they found a water-proof pen near the body. The pen had no cover. The policemen tried to use the pen to write something and they soon concluded that the woman was murdered. Someone had moved her body to the house after killing her. How did the police find out the truth?

Fact sheet about the murder mystery

Where did the murder happen?
In a woman's house.
When did the murder happen?
Not mentioned.
Who was the victim?
A woman.
How did he/ she die?
She was shot by a gun.
What was/ were the proof(s)?
A letter next to the dead body dated 3 days ago, a water-proof pen with no cover near the body.

How did the police find out the truth?
If a water-proof pen is left uncovered for three days, all the ink will vaporize and the pen cannot write anymore. Since the police could still use the pen to write, this proves that the pen was put near the body not long ago.

Murder mystery 4:

On a chilly winter night, a public bathroom was about to close when a young woman came in and said she would like to take a bath. The owner of the public bathroom said she could take a bath but she had to be fast. The woman thanked the owner and went into the bathroom and shut the door. After an hour, the woman still didn’t come out. The owner saw some blood coming out of the bathroom door so he called the police.

When the police arrived, they opened the door and found the dead body of the woman on the floor. She was stabbed on the chest by something sharp before she could take a bath. The owner said that no one had walked near to the bathroom. There was no sign of attackers coming in through the windows. The whole bathroom was dry and clean but there was some cold water on the woman’s right palm. The police inspector said that the woman killed herself. Do you know how she did it?

Fact sheet about the murder mystery

Murder mystery 5:

On a cold, snowy night, Inspector Jordan received a call from a restaurant owner and he went to the restaurant to investigate a murder case. The restaurant was located on a hill. Although it was freezing outside, it was very warm inside the restaurant. Inspector Jordan found a dead body sitting by a table. The dead man was shot by a gun on the forehead. Inspector Jordan asked the restaurant owner about the case. The owner said he saw a strange man wearing glasses running into the restaurant and he shot the man with a gun. The strange man left immediately after killing the person. Everything happened so fast so the owner could hardly remember exactly how the strange man looked like.

Inspector Jordan knew straight away that the restaurant owner was lying. Why?
